WELCOME

Welcome to the 28th Nebraska Women in Agriculture Conference, "Communicating in Challenging Times!" The drought of the past year has certainly created challenges for farmers and ranchers in Nebraska in many ways, from changes in irrigation strategies, grazing techniques and marketing to wildfires – making communication between family members and business associates even more important.

In the next day and a half please enjoy attending your workshops, general sessions, and especially networking with other women producers. The ideas for these topics were generated by you based on what we heard that you see as important to production and life on the farm and ranch. Hopefully you find the information you need to make some positive and profitable changes in your business or maybe to reinforce what you are already doing. UNL Extension is providing more than half of the workshop speakers – what a great resource we have!

Enjoy yourself – this is your time to get away and relax. Be sure to stop by and see what our GROW Nebraska entrepreneurs have to offer, attend one of the FUNshops and connect with other producers. Visit each booth and thank a sponsor.

Finally, a special thanks to our WIA crew; Sandy Sterkel, our registration guru; student intern, Liz Zoucha and our Ag Econ graduate student Sarah Black. Please take a minute to show your appreciation to them.

We are so glad you are here -- have a great conference!

-Cheryl

Keynote Speakers

JOLENE BROWN

“It’s a Jungle Out There! Blazing New Trails for Agriculture”

Jolene Brown is a walking-talking spokesperson and champion for the people of agriculture. She’s a farmer, author and professional speaker. Jolene is from West Branch, Iowa and her worldwide audiences appreciate her fun-filled spirit and valuable information. She’s on a mission to share leading-edge best practices, appreciation, laughter and celebration to increase productivity, profitability and peace of mind.

For more information about Jolene go to, www.jolenebrown.com

TEMPLE GRANDIN

“Improving Animal Welfare: A Practical Approach”

Dr. Temple Grandin was born in Boston, Massachusetts. She obtained her B.A. at Franklin Pierce College in 1970, earned her M.S. in Animal Science at Arizona State University in 1975, and was awarded her Ph.D in Animal Science from the University of Illinois in 1989. She is currently a Professor at Colorado State University. Dr. Grandin has become a world leader in the design of livestock handling facilities and has designed almost half of all cattle processing facilities for meat packing plants in North America and consults with many industry companies. Temple has done extensive research and has written numerous journal articles and books on animal handling as well as autism. She has become a source of inspiration and motivation for parents and teachers of children with autism around the world. She has appeared on numerous TV shows and even had an HBO movie made about her life.

For a more extensive biography of Dr. Temple Grandin go to: www.grandin.com.

Temple Grandin is sponsored by Farm Credit Services of America

Thursday Evening Entertainment

R.P. SMITH

R.P. Smith is honored to be a participant in the 2013 Nebraska Women In Ag Conference. Looking back through hundreds of programs done over the past twenty years, the Women in Ag conferences stick in his mind as some of the very best audiences he has had the pleasure of entertaining. On the days that R.P. is not on the road entertaining folks across the country with his unique brand of humor and cowboy poetry, this fourth generation rancher enjoys his time with his family and livestock on the home place near Broken Bow.

R.P. is sponsored by Valmont Irrigation, NRCS, and FSA

Friday Breakfast Speaker

CHERYL BURKHART-KRIESEL

“Your Community: Why You Need to Care About Recruiting New Residents”

Why care about your local community? Because it has a direct effect on your business – it is where you find your off-farm employment, buy many of your farm supplies, recruit your farm labor, educate your children, and probably get your financing. Rural communities need a steady stream of new residents to thrive and we, farm and ranch owners/operators, have a role to play in the recruitment and retention of these new residents. New residents ARE coming to rural areas of Nebraska. We need to know what attributes they are looking for and how we, both rural and community residents, can make rural Nebraska more welcoming.

Cheryl Burkhart-Kriesel is the co-owner and operator of a third generation agri-business, Kriesel Certified Seed, a small grains certified seed business located in the “suburbs” of Gurley, north of Sidney, Nebraska. She is a University of Nebraska Extension Specialist in Community Development, focusing her research on resident recruitment and retention issues. She has also served as President of the Nebraska Wheat Growers Association, as a member of the Board of Directors of the National Association of Wheat Growers and chair of the national wheat quality sub-committee, as Vice Chair of the South Platte Natural Resources District, and as a member of the Ag Builders of Nebraska.

Workshops– Session 1

“Lions and Tigers and Family, Oh My! Pitfalls and Snares that Break Up a Family and Business”™

Jolene Brown, Family Business Consultant

Sometimes agriculture is like the Land of Oz... tornado-like times, uncertainty, pitfalls and snares. Although we have no magic shoes or wizard to solve our challenges, we can learn lessons from that supporting Oz cast who sought a brain, a heart and courage. This eye-opening, interactive presentation highlights the stupid things families do that break up their business. We will discuss in-laws and out-laws, off-site family and estates, daily communications and important meetings. From conversations to contracts, from assumptions to clarification, we will open eyes, increase profitability, and save fighting on the way to the funeral home.

Jolene is sponsored by Reinke Irrigation

“How Healthy is my Soil?” An Introduction to Soil Health

Corey Brubaker, State Conservation Agronomist, NRCS

Maintaining or improving the health of our soils is essential for the long term sustainability of our farms and ranches. Participants will be introduced to the concept of soil health and the four basic principles for maintaining or improving soil health. The presentation will include an interactive demonstration of some of the tools and methods for evaluating soil health and an introduction to the NRCS Soil Health Campaign.

Corey is sponsored by the Natural Resources Conservation Service

Did You Know?

- Today the average U.S. farmer feeds 155 people. In 1960, a farmer fed just 26 people.
- There are 23 million acres of range and pasture land in Nebraska. Half of these acres are in the sand hills!
 - NE Agriculture in the Classroom
- Over 40% of Nebraska's corn crop was utilized in ethanol production.

Workshops– Session 1

“Love the Skin You’re In!”

Carol O’Neill, Outreach Oncology Nurse, Good Samaritan Hospital Cancer Center

Your skin. You love it, pamper it, moisturize it, exfoliate it, scrub it, wax it, shave it, tan it, burn it, and abuse it. It’s twenty two square feet of intricate, living fabric, sculpted around each curve and tucked into every nook and cranny. It’s renewable, yet irreplaceable. Its delicacy and vulnerability are matched only by its strength and resiliency. Learn how to protect this marvelous masterpiece - your largest body organ – from the most common type of cancer.

Carol is sponsored by Good Samaritan Hospital Cancer Center

“A New Farm Bill for a New Era?”

Brad Lubben, Extension Ag Policy Specialist

The debate on a new farm bill occupied much of 2012, but had to work hard for attention as the election and the fiscal cliff grabbed most of the agenda and headlines. Whether Congress can get its job done quickly or not, a new farm bill will mean some big changes worthy of headlines. This presentation will discuss the current status and policy outlook for the farm bill, the analysis and comparison of farm bill proposals and any compromise language, and the implications for producers and producer risk management decisions.

Brad is sponsored by Nebraska Farm Bureau

Food For Thought:

“You must gain control over your money or the lack of it will forever control you.”

-Dave Ramsey

“I may be only one person, but I can be one person who makes a difference.”

-Vadra Francene Groce , Age 10

Bowling Green, Kentucky

“It isn’t what you have or who you are or where you are or what you are doing that makes you happy or unhappy. It is what you think about it.”

-Dale Carnegie, self-movement writer

“Learning to listen is one of the most valuable skills to learn.”

-Roger Love, Leading Authority on Voice

Workshops–Session 2

“The World is Flat! How the Global Marketplace Affects the Price of Grain in Nebraska”

Wade Johannes, Commodity Risk Manager, Central Valley Ag

Have you ever been ready to sell, but the market drops due to some seemingly unrelated event on the other side of the world? We all have. And while that is frustrating, it is also an exciting new challenge! Why does China consume so many soybeans? Why is Brazil’s ethanol being imported into the United States? Where in the world is all the grain going to come from? These are all topics we will discuss in this session. So if you are ready to learn, you won’t want to miss this!

Wade is sponsored by the Nebraska Ethanol Board

“Ag-Citing Science!”

Megan Hanefeldt, Extension Assistant Holt & Boyd Counties, Jennifer Hansen, Extension Educator Thurston County, Sarah Polacek, Extension Assistant Madison County & Jackie Steffen, Extension Educator Cedar County

Join Nebraska 4-H as we celebrate Nebraska’s largest industry - Agriculture. During this workshop you will learn ways that you can share/teach Ag Literacy! As a mom, teacher, aunt, sister, educator, or friend, receive ideas and tips on how to bring Ag Literacy into your everyday interactions.

Megan, Jennifer, Sarah, and Jackie are sponsored by A-Fan

“Landscaping in Drought Conditions”

David Lott, Extension Educator

What will my trees and landscape look like this spring? This is a good question to ask after continued dry conditions across Nebraska. Join us in assessing the health and care needs of trees and landscapes in drought conditions. Practical landscape planning, water and chemical conservation practices will also be presented to help landscapes grow and develop even during continued dry periods.

David is sponsored by the Nebraska Tourism Commission

“My grandfather used to say that once in your life you need a doctor, a lawyer, a policeman, and a preacher, but everyday, three times a day, you need a farmer.”

- Brenda Schoepp

Workshops-Session 2

“Transition and Estate Planning in 2013”

Joe Hawbaker, Attorney, Hawbaker Law Office

A presentation on basic issues in farm and ranch estate planning in a climate of change, including new and current estate and gift tax laws, basis adjustment rules, capital gains, inheritance tax, asset preservation and probate. Discussion of tools employed in estate and succession planning, such as wills, trusts, asset titling, contracts, leases, options, valuation discounts and powers of attorney. Time permitting, there will be a discussion of succession planning strategies along with a chance for questions. This session will be presented in Session 2 and continued in Session 3. Plan on attending both sessions as they will build on each other.

Joe is sponsored by Hawbaker Law Office

“Building Your Brand in Rural Business”

Jenny Nixon, Extension Educator

From raw commodities to value added ag products and the local foods movement, to ag-tourism ventures. Agriculture has gained Sex Appeal. Take advantage of this with your business. This session will cover being a good advocate for your business, building your brand, and marketing your brand.

Jenny is sponsored by the Sustainable Agriculture Research and Education (SARE)

“Beef Cattle Nutrition in Drought Times”

Rick Rasby, Extension Livestock Specialist

What a difference a year makes. The drought of 2012 has impacted the cattle industry in Nebraska, an industry that is the primary economic driver in Nebraska. What management practices do we consider next if we don't get winter and spring moisture? We will discuss feeding and culling strategies.

Rick is sponsored by The Nebraska Corn Board

“Real Colors 1”

Susan Pearman, Extension Educator

Note: Participants must attend Session 2 and Session 3. Attendance will be limited to 35

Are your spices alphabetized? Do you make lists for your lists? Do you have family members that are logical and loathe small talk? Why are some people always so comforting? Do you know someone who thinks they have money in the bank just because they have a debit card in their hand? We'll look at personalities according to their colors!

Susan is sponsored by the Dairy Farmers of America

Workshops–Session 3

“Grain Marketing 101”

Jessica Johnson, Extension Educator

Should I sell? Should I store? What is the market telling me? This workshop will cover the basic steps to help you develop a proactive grain marketing plan. We'll discuss developing marketing goals, fixed price marketing tools, post-harvest marketing options and marketing plan exit strategies.

Jessica is sponsored by Great Western Bank

“FSA and the New Farm Bill”

Terri Post, Farm Services Agency

Where do we go from here? Comprehensive discussion concerning the new farm bill, its provisions, and how it will affect our farms. FSA benefits will be explained and questions answered to help you make the best informed decisions you can for your operation.

Terri is sponsored by the Nebraska Farm Service Agency

“Transition and Estate Planning in 2013”

Joe Hawbaker, Attorney, Hawbaker Law Office

This workshop is a continuation from Session 2. Participants should attend both sessions.

A presentation on basic issues in farm and ranch estate planning in a climate of change, including new and current estate and gift tax laws, basis adjustment rules, capital gains, inheritance tax, asset preservation and probate. Discussion of tools employed in estate and succession planning, such as wills, trusts, asset titling, contracts, leases, options, valuation discounts and powers of attorney. Time permitting, there will be a discussion of succession planning strategies along with a chance for questions. This session will be presented in Session 2 and continued in Session 3. Plan on attending both sessions as they will build on each other.

Joe is sponsored by Hawbaker Law Office

“Good instincts usually tells you what to do long before your head has figured it out.”

–Michael Burke

“Be a yardstick of quality. Some people aren’t used to an environment where excellence is expected”

–Steven Jobs

Workshops–Session 3

“Ag Leasing ”

Allan Vyhnalek, Extension Educator and Carrie Duffy, Mid-Continent Properties

Allan will present the latest information on cash leasing trends in Nebraska. He will also cover the implications of possible drought for 2013 on crop and pasture leases. Other topics to be discussed will be proper lease communications and the importance of having a written lease. Don't miss his common sense approach to improving landlord/tenant relations. Carrie will discuss ag leasing from the perspective of the management company.

Allan and Carrie are sponsored by Mid-Continent Properties

“Breast Cancer: Taking Care of the Girls! ”

Carol O'Neill, Outreach Oncology Nurse, Good Samaritan Hospital Cancer Center

What did Atossa, the Queen of Persia 500 years before the birth of Christ, have in common with 2.9 million American women living today? Certainly not domestic slaves. It's breast cancer! While breast cancer was a rare disease during Atossa's time, it's a startling reality today — one of every eight women living today will face this diagnosis during her lifetime. Learn about breast cancer, risk factors, prevention strategies, and screening recommendations that may directly impact your life and health.

Carol is sponsored by Good Samaritan Hospital Cancer Center

“Real Colors 2 ”

Susan Pearman, Extension Educator

Note: Participants must attend Session 2 and Session 3. Attendance will be limited to 35.

Now that you know what personality color you are, how do you work, live and play with those that are contrasting colors? How do blues and greens actually get along? We'll talk about how all colors can live, work, and play together on the farm or ranch harmoniously and achieve the goals you've set.

Susan is sponsored by the Dairy Farmers of America

Fun Fact:

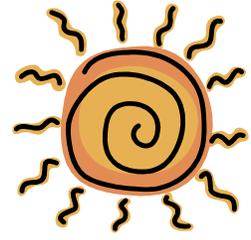

Just one acre of soybeans can produce 82,368 crayons.

Workshops-Session 4

“Climatology 2013”

Al Dutcher, UNL and Market Journal State Climatologist

The 2012 drought is a reminder that devastation to crops and pastures are not limited to the Great Plains. At its peak, our current drought impacted over 80% of the corn belt and was the most widespread event since 1988. Will similar conditions emerge for a second consecutive year during the 2013 agricultural production year? In this session we will summarize how the 2012 drought developed and discuss how climatologists attempt to quantify the difference between an agricultural and hydrological drought.

Al is sponsored by Affiliated Brokers Insurance

“Operating With Today’s Land Values ”

Allan Vyhnalek, Extension Educator

This is the second time land prices have skyrocketed in our lifetime. This session will cover how we got here, what to look for in the future, and strategies on how to effectively deal with these ever-changing land values.

Allan is sponsored by UNL Extension

“Personalities and Profits ”

Roy Smith, Marketing Consultant and Farmer

Have you ever wondered why marketing is so difficult for farmers? Do you ever wonder why the “experts” are wrong so often? Are women really better at marketing than men? Do the men and women in your farming operation see financial decisions differently? This “Personalities and Profits” session will answer these questions and give helpful hints for taming the marketing monster in your farm business.

Roy is sponsored by the Nebraska Soybean Board

“Get With It! ”

Peg Brune, Record Keeping Consultant and Farmer

Having information readily available to you no matter where you are helps utilize your time away from home more effectively. In this workshop we will discuss many types of software and apps that are suited for all ages and all levels of experience. We will have demonstrations on useful computer websites as well as tablet/iPad and SMARTphone apps to help organize your life and keep you socially engaged. We will share resources to help you continue to learn and share as you become more technically charged. So, let’s “GET WITH IT”!

Peg is sponsored by the Nebraska LEAD Program

Workshops-Session 4

“Alphabet Soup!”

Leah Carson & Cherese Barnes, NRCS

Alphabet soup always intrigued us as kids. That whole jumble of letters mixed together and each spoonful would have a whole new ‘word’! Every new farm bill has a whole new ‘spoonful of letters’ of new programs. This presentation will give you an overview of the programs available through NRCS and how to apply for these different programs. Bring your own ‘crackers’!

Leah and Cherese are sponsored by the NRCS

“What Your Insurance Agent Might Not Tell You”!

Kathy McHenry, Financial Advisor

It's no secret - insurance is boring, tedious and often sold with a high pressure sales pitch. Do you know that what you've bought is what you really need? How do you choose which policy to buy, and when? Do you understand the fine print on your annual statement? Who should own it and how should I list beneficiaries? Why do the talk show experts say term is always the best option? Learn the difference between fixed, universal, variable and indexed policies, long-term care alternatives, and how to take advantage of some tricks of the trade. Bring your questions and relax - we'll find a way to make this fun!

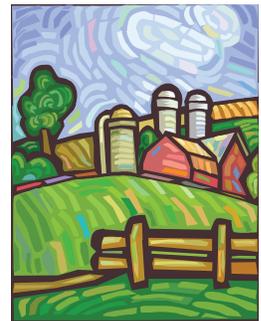

Kathy is sponsored by McHenry Financial

Drought-Minimize Your Pastures

Bethany Johnston, Extension Educator

Drought isn't something that just happened last summer, instead it's a common process in the Great Plains. Here, plant communities have evolved over time, through dry and wet cycles, and grazing pressure. If you sell an annual grass-crop or graze that crop yourself, join us to learn how to “set-up” your pastures so they have the best chance to produce a sustainable crop for you, even in the dry years. Moisture and soil temperature are two critical inputs for plant growth which we have no control over.

Active pasture management continuously allows you a better chance of staying viable through the dry periods. We will learn how the current drought will impact this year's plant health and how pastures are affected by multiple years of drought. We'll look at adjusting stocking rates, how to determine season of use, how deferment helps plant health and/or when to move the grazing animal from the pasture, in other words — drought-minimize your pastures.

Bethany is sponsored by the Nebraska Beef Council

Workshops-Session 5

“Climatology 2013”

Al Dutcher, UNL and Market Journal State Climatologist

The 2012 drought is a reminder that devastation to crops and pastures are not limited to the Great Plains. At its peak, our current drought impacted over 80% of the corn belt and was the most widespread event since 1988. Will similar conditions emerge for a second consecutive year during the 2013 agricultural production year? This discussion will attempt to determine which areas of the country have the greatest risk of experiencing yield limiting weather and how it could impact national production of corn, soybean, wheat, and forage stocks.

Al is sponsored by Hastings Irrigation

Crop Insurance for 2013

Monte Vandever, Extension Educator

Crop insurance has become one of the most important risk management tools in the farm operator’s toolbox. This session will discuss the different kinds of crop insurance, how crop insurance works, and the most common insurance plans and coverage used in Nebraska. You will learn what information you need to develop your own yield history, important dates for participation, and learn how to look up premium information on the Risk Management Agency website.

Monte is sponsored by the USDA Risk Management Agency

Crops and Drought Strategies with the Water Optimizer

Jenny Rees, Extension Educator & Chuck Burr, Extension Educator

The entire State of Nebraska has been hit by drought. Low soil moisture reserves going into spring can have a significant impact on our crops in 2013. This session will allow participants to use the Water Optimizer decision support tool by UNL. This tool helps growers determine which crop(s) to plant on a field in both irrigated and dryland situations. The latest research regarding seeding rates for crops in limited water environments will also be shared.

Jenny and Chuck are sponsored by Valmont Irrigation, Inc.

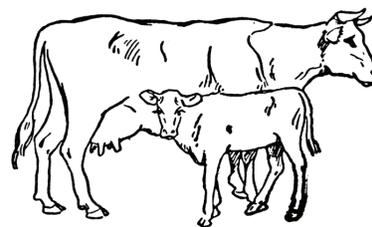

Workshops- Session 5

Benefits of and Tips to Achieve a Short Calving Season

Rick Funston, Extension Livestock Specialist

Learn about the importance of having a high percent of calves born early in your calving season (whenever that is), factors that influence this event, and ways to influence it in an economically viable manner.

Rick is sponsored by Nebraska Cattlemen

Livestock Marketing 101

Kate Brooks, Extension Livestock Specialist

Recent months have brought a whole new set of issues and concerns for those that market livestock. The cost of feed has skyrocketed, forage is difficult to find because of drought conditions, and the market price for cattle isn't profitable. Many find that their tried and true livestock marketing strategies are not working for them now. In this session we will look at marketing basics and how to implement them in this strange new world of marketing in 2013.

Kate is sponsored by the UNL Agricultural Economics Department

Vegetable and Fruit Diseases: How to ID, Manage, and Impacts of the Drought

Amy Timmerman, Extension Educator

Description: Explore the variety of vegetable and fruit diseases that can impact your garden. Learn how to identify the various diseases and ways to manage them. We will also look at the impacts that the continuing drought could have on predicting which diseases we will see in 2013.

Amy is sponsored by T-L Irrigation Co.

Land Succession

Kathie Starkweather, Virginia Meyer The Center for Rural Affairs & Deb Welsh, Producer

Nebraska women own and control an increasing amount of farm and ranch land in our state. They are major decision makers on a wide range of issues impacting their farms and ranches including conservation practices, marketing farm products and integrating the next generation into their operation. This workshop will discuss the importance of transitioning land to beginning farmers and ranchers and profitable opportunities for the next generation of Nebraska agricultural producers.

Kathie, Virginia, and Deb are sponsored by the Center for Rural Affairs

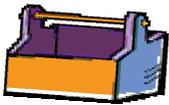

FunShops-

FunShops are optional workshops that provide a fun way to network and learn in a non-pressure setting! Each FunShop is no longer than 90 minutes, and begins at 7:30 p.m.

“Gratitude with Attitude”

Bonnie Schulz and students, Northeast Community College

Did you know that new research demonstrates that there are lasting physical and social benefits to gratitude? Learn simple, practical steps to building your own toolbox of Gratitude, turning your attitude into Gratitude on a regular basis. Participants will be creating their own mini Gratitude journal to take home. Please bring a blank thank you card with envelope and a stamp.

Have you always known you were in charge of your own attitude? Have you ever blamed bad stuff that happens to you on others or circumstances you have no control over? Well that is where Gratitude steps in and my goal is to help you build your own toolbox of Gratitude, with Attitude adjusters for your own lives. Turning your attitude into Gratitude on a regular basis.

Bonnie is sponsored by College of Agriculture and Natural Resources

“Family Photographic Heritage in the Digital Age”

Jenny Nixon, Extension Educator

How do families maintain and continue a photographic heritage in the face of the digital age. Digital cameras have changed how we take pictures and what happens to our pictures. Come and explore taking photos;; how many and when, preserving photos; maintaining the digital image for the future, and using photos; how to make digital photos useful for family consumption.

Jenny is sponsored by UNL Entrepreneurship Group

“The Best Tailgating Party EVER!”

Jill Brown and Jana Kruger, Women in Agriculture “Lifers”

Food! Football! Festivities! Wait, who says tailgating has to be limited to football? Our family loves to tailgate year round. Come ready to swap recipes, decorating tips, and games you like to play. Wear your favorite team sweatshirt!

“Strength comes in numbers, but it only takes one voice to lead.”

-Hillary Batchelder

“It is not your job to make everyone happy. It is your job to be happy. Then you are in the perfect place to uplift everyone you meet.”

-Alan Cohen

“The THREE great essentials to achieve anything worthwhile are; first, hard work; second, stick-to-itiveness; third common sense.”

-Thomas Edison
